

Special Session for WENDI, UNESCO
Course

Resilience Retreat

Where: Kamigamo Experimental Station (within Kyoto City、京都大学上賀茂試験場)

When: 10:00-16:30, September 24 (Tue.)2019

This session is designed to provide an environment for students to 1) reflect themselves with natures and 2) focus on linkage of humans, natures, and societies physically, innately and intellectually. The goal is to draw insights on the relationship between the linkage and resilience, which will be a critical basis to work on social issues as researchers (humans) for sustainable society.

Who should attend: All students who wish to receive credits for ①“Social Innovation and Resilience” or/and ② “Practices for Creating Resilience” within Course for Creating Resilient Societies (CRS) in 2019. The Retreat is provided as a pre-session for these classes (see ※ 1. 2. ). At the same time, this Retreat is open to graduate school student in Kyoto University who are interested in this human-nature-society linkages and resilience. When the numbers of attendees are more than 20, the registration will be closed.

※1. In case you have a special reason not to attend this session, please contact Assoc. Prof. Mika Shimizu (shimizu.mika.5a@kyoto-u.ac.jp). She will give you alternative instructions.

※2 For the whole overview of both classes, we will send you a separate note soon.
